The Client:

Australia based entrepreneur, Pediatric and Neurological Physiotherapist with over 25 years experience.

The Problem:

Digitised manual for mothers who want to learn appropriate ways of massaging their babies. This was not available on mobile platforms for ease of use

Our Solution:

Greyhound Technologies Pvt. Ltd addressed the requirements of the client and came up with a solution of developing the application that would be purely mobile based and would allow the users to learn different ways of body massage for babies of age 2 days to 12 months

The app has various categories on which static data has been provided along with the images for better understanding

The information in the app “baby massage guide” has been developed to provide parents and care givers with information they need to assist in understanding their baby that little bit more.

The user interface is extremely smooth and simple for better UI experience.

The application has been developed for both Android and iPhone users hence the application is completely platform independent
